The story behind Ko Yin Fresh Mineral Drinking Water

We were travelling on a small boat on Inle Lake, Burma when a freak storm hit the lake. We were put ashore in the village of Phaya Taung and were given shelter by the monks. What happened next changed our lives and we are now looking to change the lives of the 1200 abandoned and orphaned children at the monastery.

Whilst staying at the monastery we discovered this clean mountain water source on the monastery land. The water factory is now operating at full capacity, 4000 litres per day & provides fresh drinking water to the 3000 children & villagers and every bottle that is sold to the public pays for one meal for a young school child.

This deeply moving book comprises many tales which all help to tell the wider story of a troubled country. These stories, along with vivid descriptions of the land and its peoples, form the backdrop to one of the most inspiring narratives I have read in a long time.
